About the Air Force Museum Foundation, Inc.:

The Air Force Museum Foundation was founded in 1960 as the philanthropic corporation that assists in the development and expansion of the facilities of the National Museum of the United States Air Force™ (NMUSAF), located at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio. In addition to funding capital construction and facility improvements, the Foundation provides annual funding to the Museum for special projects and underwrites several programs involving a wide range of activities geared toward education, volunteer support, special events, and promotional efforts.

Since its inception, the AFMF has gifted $87.3M (approximately $140M in today's dollars) to the U.S. Air Force for capital construction, including $40.8M for the successful fourth building capital campaign. The fourth building opened to the public in June 2016. The AFMF funds special events such as exciting exhibit openings including the Space Shuttle Exhibit and the Doolittle Tokyo Raiders Congressional Gold Medal exhibit. The AFMF also funds special projects like the Living History Series and the "D-Day: Freedom from Above" temporary augmented reality exhibit. The Air Force Museum Foundation gifted over $2M for events and programs in the past five years.
